Alachua County School Board

W.H.S. News by Penny Dodd

To honor our Waldo Schools, after the abrupt closing by the Alachua County School Board members this year, the Waldo Historical Society will be offering a calendar for 2016 including all the school history we have been able to collect since we formed in 2005.

There are photos of the first high school in Alachua County, located in Waldo, teachers and principals of the colored and white schools and students, as well as sports teams, and cheerleaders.

A $10.00 donation will get you a copy of this limited edition calendar.

If you, or someone you know would like one, please pre-order by contacting us at P.O. Box 459, Waldo, Florida, or send an email to historicwaldo@gmail.com. They will make a perfect Christmas gift for anyone with an interest in Waldo.

Spaghetti Dinner

Don't forget our annual Spaghetti Dinner this month on the 11th of September. We'll be serving spaghetti, garden salad, a drink and dessert from 4 p.m. until 7 p.m. at the Waldo Baptist Church Family Life Center. Save a dollar by getting your tickets early (only $6.00), or $7.00 when we open the doors.

A LITTLE BIRD TOLD ME by Lucy Roe Cook

This Little Bird is fighting back tears as school is beginning and the Waldo School House sits quiet without the laughter of its children. My prayers go out to the children in their new schools and the parents and teachers and all those who will help to make it a new and wonderful school year.

The 2015 Spaghetti Dinner hosted by the WHS will be on September 11 from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. This will be the 9th year. There will be a raffle for a lovely blanket with historic photos on it. It is nice. Sept. 11th from 4pm to 7pm. See all of you hungry people there again this year. Those of you who have never attended be sure and bring an appetite. The WHS always leaves little worms out for me and my feathered friends. Some folks call them noodles but we enjoy eating them as little worms. Thank you WHS. Thank you to the Waldo Baptist Church for sharing their facility each year.

Contact a WHS member to order your 2016 Calendar. The members of the WHS have put in many hours searching for pictures of the schools of Waldo from 1800s to the present day. History of the schools, the principals, teachers, students and pictures of them also. The White and the Colored. When they are sold out there will be no more available.

I have enjoyed the sign man's signs for many a year. This week's, "Made in America Makes Me Smile", made me smile.

To all of you who, "keep on truckin', keep on truckin'" and all will be well with God's care.

Florida League of Cities Conference August 2015

Alachua County stood out this year as Matt Surrency, Hawthorne Mayor was sworn in as President of the Florida League of Cities. The Florida League of Cities, Inc. is a united voice for Florida's Municipal Governments. It's goals are to serve the needs of Florida's cities and promote local self-government. This is a great honor to have Matt Surrency as the Leagues Mayor.

Mayor Louie Davis of Waldo was given the prestige's E Harris Drew Award at the League Conference in Orlando. This award, sponsored by the Florida League of Cities, recognizes and honors a local elected official who has made a lasting and worthwhile contribution to the citizens of Florida through their efforts and dedication in the performance of their duties on the local level, thus fulfilling the League's motto, "Local Self-Government- Keystone of American Democracy." Each year an honoree is chosen from nominations received by the selection committee of three appointed by the President of the League. Mayor Davis's name will be added to the permanent plaque located at the Leagues office in Tallahassee, Florida. Mayor Davis has served the City of Waldo for 33 years/29 of those years as Mayor.

On Saturday, September 19th, our lodge will be having a Smoked Boston Butt Sandwich Dinner for the purpose of being able to raise more money so that we will be able to continue to contribute to various charities. Some of the charities to whom we would like to make donations are: Ronald McDonald house, Gainesville, Tyler's Hope, Gainesville; The Children's Miracle Network, Gainesville, St. Jude's Children's Hospital, TN; and the Fisher House - V.A. Medical Center, Gainesville.

& Waldo Chapter No. 120,

(Fund-raiser for local Community Charity needs and other worthwhile charities)

WHAT: Smoked Boston Butt sandwich, baked beans, coleslaw, tea; $7.00 per dinner (eat in or carry out)

WHEN: Saturday, September 19, 2015

TIME: 3:00 P.M. - 7:00 P.M. (or until sold out)

On June 20, 2015, Waldo Lodge No. 10 F. & A.M. held its Smoked chicken Dinner fund-raiser at the lodge. It was very successful, financially, and this success enabled us to make substantial contributions to a number of charities: The Shriner's Hospital for Children in Tampa; the Fisher House - V.A. Medical Center; and the Rippey family (young daughter killed by sturgeon on Suwannee River over July 4th Holiday).

One of our top priorities is to work with a local church who can recommend needy families in Waldo to whom we can donate baskets of food during the Thanksgiving and Christmas Holidays.

With your support (by coming to our fund-raising dinner on the 19th of September), we can have a positive effect on the welfare of our community.

The Kitchen by Randy Burnham

Continued from August issue

CHARACTERS: James & Lucy Marconi, their son, Jay (age 12), Mark & Mary Wilson, and their son, Tim (age 11)

James and Unk let the raft drift slowly to the bank. James jumped off and tied it to a poll in the ground. Unk pulled the other end around and they tied it also. James took a big sack from the raft and came to the house.

"Comin in the house." he shouted.

Lucy went to the door, "well, come on in."

She put her arms around him and gave him a big kiss. She leaned back and smiled. "I'm glad you are home."

"Glad to be home." he said. James went over and placed the sack on the table. Jay came into the kitchen and he gave his pa a hug. James roughed up Jay's hair and grinned at him. "Ya'll have a seat. I got some surprises for ya both." James reached into the big sack and took out a pair of overalls and a shirt. He handed them to Jay, "here, all yores."

"Thanks pa."

James pulled out a pair of boots and a pair of socks, "I figured you could use a new pair of boots also."

"Shore can." Jay said with a big grin.

"Well, go try em on." Lucy said.

Jay left and went into the bedroom. Unk came up to the door, "comin in the kitchen."

"Come on in Unk." Lucy said.

Unk took his usual place at the table. He had a box with him. He put it on the table in front of him. "I can wait." he said. James reached into the sack and took out some pretty blue cloth and some new needles and thread. "for you." he said as he handed them to Lucy.

"Oh James, it is beautiful. this will make a pretty dress and an apron too."

He took out another package of cloth, "this is for some new curtains." Lucy clasped her hands over her mouth. "James do you know how long I been wantin some new curtains?"

He looked at his wife and his heart raced to see her so happy. It made him happy that he could give her something to bring joy in her life. "Well, if that makes you happy, try these." He handed her a new pair of shoes.

"James!"

"Here, take em, try em on, see if they fit!"

Lucy slid them on her feet. "Look James, they fit just fine."

He looked at Unk, "well, guess you were right. Unk picked em out. Guess he knows more about you than I do."

Jay came back into the kitchen. "they a little big,"

"We can put a cuff in them legs and you can grow right into them just fine."

"Come here and sit down." James said. He reached into the bag again. "Close yore eyes." he told Jay. James laid the gift on the table. "Open em and see if you like it." Jay's eyes opened and he looked at the knife laying on the table.

"For me? Is this for me?"

"Yep, all yores."

"A bowie knife, my own bowie knife, and a shih too." He looked up "its the prettiest thing I ever saw. Can I go outside with it?"

"It's yores, reckon you can go where ya like with it."

Lucy looked at Unk, "it's your turn Unk."

He slid the package across the table to Lucy. "Here, this is for you."

"Unk. Really? For me?"

"Open it." he said.

She untied the string and took the brown paper off. "OH Unk! It is beautiful!" It was a red box with a yellow ribbon. She slowly lifted the top off. Inside was little individually wrapped chocolates. She looked at Unk,

"You shouldn't have. This must have cost a lot of money."

"Don't you worry yoreself about what it cost. Just eat one of em." She looked at James and he was beamin with a big grin across his face. She started to cry.

"Here now." Unk said. "We shore don't want to make you cry."

"I ain't sad. This is one of the best days I ever had." She wiped the tears from her face and broke out in a smile. She had her hands folded together under her chin. "I hate to eat em, they are so pretty."

"You ain't got to eat none of em if you don't want to." Unk said.

Lucy scanned her finger slowly over the chocolates and she stopped over one and looked at James. "This one?" James nodded. She picked it up and put it in her mouth and bit down on it.

"Well?" Unk asked. "How is it?"

"This is the best tasting thing I have eat in my whole life. Oh Lordy, it is good!"

Unk leaned back in his chair, and exhaled. James sat back in his chair with a sigh of relief. She held up the box and offered them some.

"Oh no." Unk said, "them are for you."

"He's right dear. They are yores."

James pulled out a small paper sack with hard stick candy in it. "This here is for Jay."

Unk stook up, "Them supplies ain't gone unload themselves."

Lucy gave Unk a big hug, "Thanks. that was sweet of you."

"Turn me loose. It's just a box of candy." and out the door he went.

Lucy sat down in James' lap. "You have made me the happiest woman in the world today."

He looked into her eyes, "I know I have never said this before. I used to think when I got this feelin it was because I was proud of you, but when Unk was buying them chocolates he was tellin me what a good woman you was and how you took care of all us men and that I was a lucky man to have you. I realized it wasn't just pride, it was love I felt." She laid her head on his shoulder with her arms around him. Softly he said, "I love you Lucy." She was staring into space. Her heart was about to burst wide open. "I love you too."
